He has been the recipient of the kindest attention and the best medical skill but his life is now too far spent for the offers of kludness or the acts of his earthly physicians to avail to stay the hand of the Destroyer.

To the Editor of the News: I met the Solicitor to-day, and thus unto me did he say: "Mr. William A. Hearne, the statements contained in the News of yesterday, over your signature, are infamous lies; and I denounce you as a liar."

I told him I was in no condition, physically, to resent his insults, and observing his hand under his coat, as f on his hip-pocket, I remarked unto him that I was not arm-ed for the occasion, but I would take care of him. He intimated that he needed taking care of about as bad as any-body I had lately seen. He then started to pass on, when I suggested that I was willing to submit the facts in my article to judicial inquiry, whereat he manifested angry im-patience as if what he wanted was "ber-lud;" and majestically walked away.

As Mr. J. C. L. Harris was, in 1874. Treasurer of the Insane Asylum, I would like to ask him if he is not a defaulter to that Institution? "Only this and nothing more."

Since the last letter of your correspondent, I have succeeded in getting hold of a little scheme in 1. publi-can circles that not only needs watching but is a matter of some im portance in political circles. Of course, this little game was emanat ed somehow in the State Capitol, but I secured the information last night, and my informant hot only avers its reliability, but states that he has secured it direct. Settle and Billy Smith, I mean "Blow your horn," have entered into a little political co-partnership to tickie each other in the next campaign. The fact is, each of these political aspirants is de-sirous of filling the gubernatorial chair, and each of them wanting official promotion. The way the plan is drawn up is to the effect that Settle will run for Governor, and Billy Smith as Lieut. Governor, and in event of election, Settle has agreed to vacate the chair and let Smith walk into the Governorship. of the performers were pupils who had received not more than five months tuition. We are certain that even Hans von Bulow could not have produced more effect with the material at disposal. It would occupy too much space to dwell critically upon each number of the programme, but we cannot bring our remarks to a close without a special mention of Miss Pritchard's singing.

YANCEYVILLE, the home of the Graves, Yanceys, Williamsons, Roans, Gunns, and Judge Kerr, in fact, one of the wealthiest and most enlightened little towns in the State, and the county seat of Caswell, only has a semi-weekly mail to Danville and a one-horse mail, once a week, to Lennox Castle. This is a shame, and the Milton Chronicle justly complains of the niggardly mail facilities accorded to this State.

GRANT, for a man who never makes a speech, is getting remarkably chatty about Babcock, He talks incessantly of how honest he believes the man is, and though Bab's counsel have several times assured him and tried to quiet him by declaring there was not sufficient evidence to convict, still the President continues to talk stalk, talk, and all about Babcock. The detectives wink their eyes and think this looks strange.

THE old fashion style of inviting editors to dinner prevails to some extent up west. Only the other day the editor of a Bakersville paper walked two or three miles up the mountains to a country dining and returned at night loaded down with horse-apples for his children and swinging a huge tin can of sauerkraut in his hand. The editor, too, of the Danbury Reporter has just had a sit extended him to a birth-day dinner where everything was served to the queen's taste. In fact, he speaks of the whole affair as "tasty" and declares that after dinner he "was introduced to several ladies from a distant section," and one of the ladies showed him the photo. graph album, to let him form some idea of how the children looked at their different stages of life. We shouldn't wonder it editors became respectable yet. THE organization of the Demccratic-Conservative party of North Carolina cannot be perfected with an empty purse. It is necessary that campaign documents shall be circulated in order that the enormous issues involved in the coming confest shall be understood by the people; that a thorough cebsas of brunt of every successful campaign the voting strength of the party in North Carolina. They were the shall be made, in order that we may know where we stand, and thet each a well selected ticket in 1876 they will voter shall be brought to the polis again bear our standard to certain on election day ; that the expenses victory with of gentlemen (other than candidates for office) requested to aid in the canvass, shall not be borne by themselves alone; in a word, it is absoutely impossible to conduct a campaign successfully without money. It behooves the party, now in a state of comparative peace, to provide the "sinews of war" that we may not enter the fight this summer unprepared and poverty-stricken.

The State Executive Committee last year, after repeated applications for aid sent out to all portions of the State, received the sorry sum of fifty-six dollars (exclusive of the amount collected in this city) with which to defray the expenses of the Convention campaign. Of course the committee was unable to print and circulate campaign documents except to a very limited extent, and the unfortunate result of the canvass was largely owing to the fact that the true issues at stake were not understood by the people at large. The Central Executive Committee, upon whom the party had placed this duty, was unable to perform it from want of funds.

We know that such family secrets are unpalatable and should not be blurted out upon all occasions. We think, however, that it is proper that the party should be advised of them at this time. It is the part of wisdom to profit by past lessons and to take measures to prevent, if possible, a recurrence of disaster. We call these facts to the attention of the State Executive Committee which meet in this city next month. It is not too soon to begin to prepare for the struggle, and we had better admit the truth at the outset, that we cannot win without thorough organization, and we cannot thoroughly organize with an empty purse.

THE DUTY OF THE PRESS AND THE PARTY.

It is an unpleasant trait of North Carolinians as a people, that they are always ready to disparage and depreciate their prominent men. As surely as one attains to eminence in political life, so surely does he become the target for unceasing attacks, and for the most part from his political allies. We are about entering upon a most important campaign, and already symptoms of our unfortunate disposition are beginning to manifest themselves. It is the duty of the press to open its columns to those who desire to advocate the claims of their respecfavorites, but it is equally its duty to refuse to publish communications unjustly denouncing the men whom our people have from time to time honored with public station, and to whom they now look for leadership. Of course when a man abuses his trust, when he has become an unfaithful sentinel upon the watch-tower, he ought to be exposed, no matter what the consequences may be, but the evidence upon which the charges are based ought not to be the malice of an anonymous scribbler. Again, when charges are made against any one, common fairness demands that they should be made honestly and should mention the name of the party attacked General expression: simed at a man or men, known only to the writer, are the weapons of a coward. If any Democrat in North Carolina who is prominent for a position upon the State ticket is unworthy of public confidence, not merely in the opinion of a few, but for reasons based upon facts, let the people have the facts. Vague charges are unjust and unfair, and ought not to have weight with an intelligent voter. Let us place no club in the hands of our adversaries with which our own brains may be beaten out. It is also a reproach to North Carolina that she rarely appreciates and honors her young men. That there are numerous exceptions to this statement is true. Badger, Swain, Vance, Ransom and others are instances to the contrary, but in almost every case there were special reasons for the exception, and the office was not bestowed because the party desired to honor the young men. Ransom, for example, was elected Attorney-General while quite young, but he was the only Whig in North Caroline who could have received the vote of the members from Warren county. The effect of this statal characteristic has been to drive from North Carolina many of her most promising sons, whose names and whose national histories are now

credited to other States. The NEWS

Reminiscence of a Famous Person al Combat-A Letter from Daniel Webster Drawn out by the Fatal Result of the Deadly Meeting.

the duel fought at Bladensburg between two members of Congress—Jonathan Cilley of Malme and William J. Graves of Kentucky Washington, Sunday eve., )
February 25, 1838.
'My Dear Str: Before this reaches you, you will probably have heard of the death of your nephew, Hon. Mr. Cilley, member of the House of Representatives from the State of Maine Cilley, member of the House of Maine, resentatives from the State of Maine. This melancholy event was the result of a duel fought yesterday, afternoon between him and Hon. Mr. Graves, member of the same House of Congress, from the State of Kentucky. I have no authentic information of the circumstances which led to the contest nor of those which mation of the circumsuages which led to the contest nor of those which accompanied it. The friends of the parties will no donot immediately lay before the public statements of such particulars as they may suppose friends may desire naturally to be informed of. The main object of this letter is to express commiseration with the numerous branches of your family, with whom I have been more or less acquainted, at this been more or less acquainted, at this affecting occurrence. Mr. Cilley himself I had not known much. He had so recently become a member of Congrest, that our acquaintance was slight. I had heard him speak in his place once or twice, however, and I thought he spoke with ability, dut having known his father and most of his uncles, either in public or private life I have had some little acquaintance with his relatives of his own generation. I have felt it a kind of duty to exhave felt it a kind of duty to exto commisseration, and I ask you to communicate these sentiments, as you may meet with the members of the family whom I know. The members of the delegation from Maine in both houses all of whom Maine, in both houses all of whom are deeply affected by the event, will de all that remains to be done. The funeral will probably be attended to-morrow. How melancholy it is, my dear air, that neither law nor religion, nor both can check the religion, nor both, can check the prevalence in society of the practice of private combats.

With friendly regard, yours,

DANIEL WEBSTER. Horatio G, Cilley, Esq., Deerfield,

The charges of corruption in obtaining office brought against Senator spencer are very plainly and forcibly stated in the statement of the Alabatha Assembly tormally presented to the United States Senate. Gen. Gideon J. Pillow says that the suit which has compelled him to file petition in bankruptcy was brought or a seizure of coal in Memphis ordered by him while in command of the Confederate forces of Tennessee. That State has thus far refused to assume the judgment rendered against him, and an entire loss of the little property the General saved from the war will probably be the result.

The following is an extract from the letter. which was written by Gen. Lee to a friend in Warm Springs, Va , and is dated July 27, 1868: "As regards the movements of Gen. Sherman, it was asy to see that unless they were interrupted I should be compelled to abandon the defense of Richmond; and with a view of arresting his progress I so weakened my force by sending reinforcements to South and North Carolina, that I had not sufficient men to man the lines. Had they not been broken. I should have abandoned them as soon as Gen. Sherman reached the Roanoke." The letter is published by Gen. Custer in his "War Memories" in the March Galaxy.

not even a rope was thrown to save them from drowning.

The Times publishes a private letter from a Carlist General who fought in the recent engagements at Elguela, in which he says the battle lasted all day, the Alfonsists being victors The Carlists lost their position, which was an important one, being the key to the country leading to Azputia. The Alfonsists numbered eight or nine times as many as the Carlists but would have been defeated had not the ammunition of the latter given out. For hours some of the Carlists had no cartridges and he could not say where they would be able to establish their lines In his opinion the enemy will reach Arepiton, and perhaps they would have struggle to keep out of Tolosa.

MIDNIGHT DISPATCHES. Per Diem so Good He Wanted More.

RICHMOND, VA., Feb. 19 -R. D. Ruffiu, colored member in the Honse, a delegate from Dinwiddle county, was expelled to-day for abstracting money from the pay book of the Sergeant-at-arms. His guilt was established beyond a doubt as the missing money was traced to him, and he confessed by giving an order against his per diem for the amount. The money he took was that of another colored member which was in the pay book near his own.

The Carlists Claim a Victory.

A Few words to Feeble and Delicate Women.

By R. V. Pierce, M. D., of the World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y., Author of "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," etc. Knowing that you are subject to a great amount of suffering, that delicacy on your part has a strong tendency to prolong it, and the longer it is neglected the more you have to endure and the more difficult to cure your case becomes, I, as a physician, who am daily consulted by scores of your sex, desire to say to you, that I am constantly meeting with those who have been treated for their ailments for months without being benefitted in the least, until they ave become perfectly discouraged and have almost made up their mind never to take another dose of mediine, or be tortured by any further treatment. They had rather die and have their sufferings ended than to live and suffer as they have. say they are worn out by suffering, and are only made worse by treatment. Of any thing more discouraging, we certainly cannot conceive and were there no more successful mode of treating such difficulties than that, the principles of which teach the reducing and depleting of the vitat forces of the system, when the indications dictate a treatment directly the reverse of the one adopthem, their case would be deplored indeed. But, lady sufferers. there is a better and far more successful plan of treatment for one more in harmony with the laws and requirements of your system. A harsh, irritating caustic treatment and strong medicines will never cure you. If you would use rational such as common-sense should dictate to every intelligent lady, take such medicines as embody the very best invigorating tonics and

RE, STOVES. TROY, NEW YORK, August 22, 1873

Mr. Chas. Pratt:

DEAR SIR:—Where a short story to tell about "Astral" Oil. Three years ago we built a warehouse we short story. In this warehouse we short paints, oils, acids, etc. Unfortunately for us, last Satu day our store and war house were entirely consumed by fire. The foliates of Astral Oil bough from you a twidays since were in the warehouse, and strange to say, came out of the fire almost unharmed; they were piled up two and three tiers high. The wood cases of course were burn off, and the cases on top entirely unserfer to but there was NO EXPLOTION, AND THE OIL IN THEOP. NO AST DID NOT BURN. To say the least oil, the oil has stood a very severatest, and is we think, all you can it to be—that is, absolutely safe. This morning before anything was disturbed, we had a picture taken of the rules, showing the oil as it remained after the fire we spure. Mr. Chas. Pratt:
